THE EVENING POST.

A PARADOX.

I know one married man who ne'er in all his wedded life. Though sorely tried, has spoken yet A cross word to his wife.

I know one woman, too, who holds Her peace thro' good and III, Who's never used her tongue against Her spouse, and never will.

"What do we want of a dog? Did you ever see a family which amounted to shucks which didn't keep a dog? Nature gave us the dog to protect us—to be a sort of companion. There are people who can strike terror to a dog's heart by one look, but I am not one of those, Mrs. Bowser—no, thank Heaven!"

"Can't you protect us, Mr. Bowser?"

"Certainly I can and do, but suppose I am off guard some night and a burglar

I am off guard some night and a burglar enters our house?"

"And burglars the dog?"
"That's it! Sneer at the poor dumb brute because nature made him a dog! Under the circumstances I have stated we should probably owe our lives to the

He brought home a dog. It was a dog with a certificate of character from his with a certificate of character from his last owner. He was guaranteed to be vigilant, trusty, tidy, kind, and to have a special hankering after the life blood of house-breakers. He carried his head to the left as if trying to see his left hind foot, and there was a suspicious squint in his eyes. He had been hadly knocked about from all appearances, but the boys who brought him explained that this was the result of tackling an elephant and coming off second best. The beast growled at me and snapped at the baby as Mr. Bowser brought him in, and when I protested against the invasion I was answered with:

"No wonder he growls! A dog knows an enemy on sight. He feels that you'd like to murder him, and he properly re-sents it. Come here, Rambo."

That night the dog had the run of the lower part of the house. We had no sooner got to bed than he began to howl. Mr. Bowser threatened him from the head of the stairs, and then he barked at intervals of five minutes for an hour, intervals of five minutes for an hour.
Mr. Bowser silenced him after awhile, and I was just getting to sleep when I heard the beast gurgling and growling and worrying something. I wanted Mr. Bowser to go down stairs, but he atterly refused, saving:

"He has probably got hold of a burglar, and I don't want to be appealed to to call him off. Just go to sleep and let Rambo alone. We haven't been as safe for years."

Due to the Tariff.

Mr. Morse, editor of the Sentinel, the Democratic organ of Indiana, when asked his opinion of the turnover, said: "If Indiana has gone Remiblican, and things."

Next morning the beast bit the cook in the leg as she went down, and the minute the door was opened he lit out for parts unknown. We soon discovered what he had been worrying. It was Mr. Bowser's new winter overcoat, and it was reduced to a roll of strings and tatters. "You, brought him home!" 1 ex-

"I did, ch?" replied Mr. Bowser, as he surveyed the heap. "And you lay right there and knew what he was at and never said a word!"

It wasn't a week before he came home with another canine. The beast was under-sized, out at the elbows and down-hearted. When I asked what he was good for, Mr. Bowser replied:

THE NEW YORKERS DISAPPOINTED The Metropolis Wakes Up Slowly to Realization of Facts.

The metropolis wakes slowly to the realization of the fact that the Democracy have once more lost control of the national executive, says the New York correspondent of the Baltimore Sun. It was high noon before the disagreeable certainty would be admitted, for the Her peace the good and ill.

They can't—they're deaf and dumb.
—[Boston Globe,
By Mrs. Bowser,

Ever since our marriage Mr. Bowser has been looking after a house dog, and a good share of our troubles have arisen over this fact. On a hundred different occasions I have asked him what he wanted of a dog, and on a hundred different occasions he has raised his voice and replied:

"What do we want of a dog? Did you ever see a family which amounted to shucks which didn't keep a dog? Nature gave us the dog to protect us—to be a sort of companion. There are people who can strike terror to a dog's heart by one look, but I am not one of those, Mrs. statement on the situation. It is a great day for the Pennsylvania method and for the "American system of protection." Indiana got the weather New York ought to have had for Cleveland luck.

Senator Quay Satisfied. When the Sun correspondent walked into the private room of Chairman Quay, at Republican headquarters, yesterday afternoon, the Pennsylvania Senator greeted him with a scraphic smile, beautiful to behold. He was standing in a corner puffing his cigar with an air of contenument, while by his side stoed Mr. John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, who personally collected and brought over to Mr. Quay $600,000 to help to obtain an honest expression of popular sentiment in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. Mr. Quay said his work was ended and his heart was glad. At this moment a member of the Republican State Committee of New Jersey was ushered in. He mournfully announced that the Legislature had gone Democratic for a certainty. A cloud for a moment passed over the countenance of the chief manager of the Republican campaign as he leaned toward the Sun's correspondent and remarked: "What a pity; this maltes the Senate a tie." The correspondent told him he ought to be reasonable and be satisfied with what he bad, and after a moment's reflection he appeared to thisk so to. Certainly Mr. beautiful to behold. He was standing bad, and after a moment's reflection he appeared to think so too. Certainly Mr. Quny has no cause to be otherwise than in the most pleasant frame of mind, for in the most pleasant frame of mind, for he now bounds to the same rank in the Republican party as occupied by Senator Gorman in the Democratic party in the management of political campaigns. By the way, it is well to remember that Senator Gorman was not at the head of Democratic management in this campaign. Senator Quay, as soon as he can close up the finances of his committee, will return home and take a rest before the meeting of Congress.

Due to the Tariff.

Indiana has gone Republican, and things look that way, it is due to the tariff, but the issue is not dead, and this verdict will be reversed. The Democrats—not the men who hold office or expect to get office, but the rank and file—recognize the vitakty and value of tariff reduction as a fundamental principle. Mr. Cleveland would, perhaps, have gone through again except for this economic issue, but the sound Democrats of Indians would rather go down with him on such an issue than to win without it. The President has been a little ahead of the times, but the country will have "Then I was talking in my sleep, and you knew it! Mrs. Bowser, you don't get a new dud for a year!"

The next dog was a bound to the times, but the country will have to wake up to the true importance of the matter. I think it will very quickly do so, and the verdiet of 1888 will be reversed."

owner told Mr. Bowser that he was a good deer dog, and $10 changed hands on this account.

"But what good is a deer dog?" I asked, when Mr. Bowser explained this fact.

"To run deer, of course."

"But where are the deer?"

"That's just like you! You expect to look out of the back door and see a dozen! I propose to go where the deer are. Did you ever see a kinder face on a dog?" When asked how he reconciled the dozen! I propose to go where the deer are. Did you ever see a kinder face on a dog?"

"He looks very simple-minded."

"Does he! Well, don't you fool yourself. You may owe your life to him yet. He's better than forty burgiaralarms."

The canine deserved credit for one thing. He slept soundly on the parlor sofa all night. On the second afternoor, he got out, and a little terrier weighing eleven onnees ran him three times around the house and finally drove him into a barrel partly filled with plaster.

"Did I buy him for a fighter?" shouted Mr. Bowser, as I related the occurrence. "He run, of course, I bought him for a runner."

He whistled for Archimedes, as he had named him, and the animal came creeping in and hid under the lounge. When routed out of that he made a dive for Mr. Bowser's feet, just in time to trip him up and let him down with a jar that made the roof shake. The scarred brute then jumped into the crib and lay down on my baby's head, from which position

Today he has received numerous congratulatory and encouraging telegrams from all parts of the country, but has committed himself to no expression of undue elation. He was particularly well pleased this afternoon to receive the momentarily increasing evidence of fine Republican success in Indiana. It is a rather curious feature of the result that when he is President he will have for his immediate representative in Congress, a low-tariff Democrat, Mr. Bynum. Those who know Gen. Harrison here speak of him as a pious, but not fanatical, man. He has long been a Sunday school teacher, and is now the teacher of an adult Bible class. He is rated as an able lawyer, and no one in Indiana. Col, Dudley Himself Again. Col. Dudley was himself, and screnity once more perched upon his brow. He looked at The Sun correspondent with an arch twinkle in his eye, and said, an arch twinkle in his eye, and said,
"Don't you think Gorman had better been at home looking after Maryland?"
The Colonel insisted on claiming the whole earth. He wanted the two Senators from Delaware and West Virginia, and not less than thirty Republican majority in the House of Representatives.
In all probability he will not abate any of his claims until the official returns come in.

The Curialn Lowered. At the Democratic headquarters the "Does he terrify rats?"
"Does he? In one week there won't be a rat on this whole square!"
"Wouldn't it be as well to stand the rate and the curtain was down. Chairman Brice and Seenator Gorman took a walk along Fifth avenue, but the stroll did not seem to calm described the stroll did not seem to calm described." "Does he? In one week there won't be a rat on this whole square!"

"Wouldn't it be as well to stand the rats as the dog?"

"That's you, exactly! That's a specimen of your mercy! It's a wonder to me that such murderons feelings as you carry in your heart don't meet with fitting punishmen."

The terrier didn't do anything remarkable for the first three days except to fill up and sleep. On the fourth day, as we were cating dinner, we heard a row in the back yard, and as we got to the door we saw the terrier pinned up in a corner of the yard, tail down and eyes rolling, and a small rat was keeping him there and having lots of fun. The rodent skipped at sight of us and the dog crawled under the barn. I haughed tail I fell down, but Mr. Bowser was very stern and dignified. After he had pulled the borrier out and flung him over the fence he came back to me and said:

Chairman Brice and Senator Gorman took a walk alone Fifth avenue, but the stroll did not seem to calm down the hot blood of Mr. Brice, for he came back and issued a bulletin to which he signed his name, claiming that New York was in doubt and Illinois had probably gone Democratic. Senutor Gorman did not agree with his distinguished colleague, for in answer to an inquiry he said he never had taken the least stock in any North-western State going for Cleveland except Indiana, and that he saw no ground for any hope of changing the claim of the Republicans to New York. He resalized that the small Cleveland majority in Brocklyn was very singular, but did not see what there was to be done about it. He thought of going home pretty seed, but if it was deemed advisable he might remain until all doubts on the disputes were settled. He thought that the fact thought that the grand palled the terrier out and flung him over the fence he came back to me and said:

Views on the Result.

Mayor Hewitt says on the result: verybody is as well satisfied as I am, then everybody is happy. The result of then everybody is happy. The result of the election for mayor relieves me of a great responsibility, and that is what I have been anxious for all along. With reference to the Presidential contest I can only say at this time that if the Democratic ticket is defeated, as would appear the case, I am sorry for it."

Joseph J. O'Donohue said: "Well, the country is all right, even if we are defeated. I suppose the ery of free trade killed us; but what lest the fight in this State, in my opinion, was not in this State, in my opinion, was not having a united tieket in this city and the fight between McLaughlin and McKane in Kings County. If we could have had a united tieket here New York City would have rolled up a majority of at least 70,000 for the national Tammany polled nearly 70 per cent. of the Democratic vote cast in New York City, and polled it uniformly for all its candidates. The vote for Mayor on the Tammany ticket is the largest ever cast of a local character in this city, even of a local character in this city, even when the Democracy was united. A Violent Editorial.

An extraordinary editorial appears in the Mail and Express, which, after opening and saying, "The Roman Catholies have taken the city." goes on to enumerate the city officials of that faith, and closes with, "and if there be any other office they will get it, and then make new offices for more of themselves. The Church of Rome is nothing if not political. It is the dominant party in this city. The majority of voters in this city. The majority of voters in this city belong to that party. The head and leader of this party is Archbishop Corrigan." The article occasions much surprise and indignation. If it had been printed before the election it would have been worth many votes to Cleveland.

Tammany Again Leads.

The vote in the city puts Tammany once more in the proud position of leadership in the Democratic councils of the "Whisky drinking makes a man's "Whisky drinking makes a man's An extraordinary editorial appears in nce more in the proud position of leadership in the Democratic councils of the State and nation. If the young element now in control of the wigwam can keep their herds, the new era opens a vista for them that may obliterate the errors of the past. Mayor Grant will have a patronage at his command equal almost to that of the new President. It is a trust that so young a man may well approach with diffidence. From the debris the County Democracy trawls out a broken and disintegrated wreek. The country will not hold them entirely guiltless of the general ruin, and the State will scoff at their beggarly showing of less than lifty thousand votes, and vote it almost on a par with the Coogan farce. Mr. Hewitt retires to political oblivion, and his know-nothing creed is once more depicted in the lumber room of the antiquated and rejected political fads of the country, never to be used again. There is some Democratic consolation in the defeat, but they are few and far between The whole Tammany local ticket. ship in the Democratic councils of the There is some Democratic consolution in the defeat, but they are few and far between. The whole Tammany local ticket is elected, as is also the Democratic local ticket in Brooklyn. The political complexion of the Congressional delegation remains unchanged, and will be J. W. Covert, Felix Campbell, John M. Claney, Thomas F. Magner, all Democrats, and W. C. Wallace, Republican, from Long Island. From New York, will go Frank T. Fitzgerald, Edward J. Dumphy, J. H. McCarthy, S. S. Cox, F. B. Spinola, J. Quinn, R. P. Flower, A. P. Fitch and W. G. Stablnecker, all Tammany nominees or endorsed by the organization. The picturesque Tim Campbell can say that "we and the guy'nor" are in the same boat. He is replaced by a far abler man and a lawyer of good repute. Dumphy and Fitzgerald are also puscioning lawyers of excellent standing. It is satisfactory to note that the deal made to M. Gurar with the Cenney Democracy is satisfactory to note that the deal made to Mr. Quay with the County Democracy to elect Kavannugh in the sixth district was of no avail. Except in this instance the agreement of both factions to make no compact or trades seems to have been generally kept.

It would be a structure that would lay in the shade all the ice and corn palaces ever constructed. The main part of the structure could be of the finest specimens of rock salt to be found in the quarries, chiseled, carved and artistically arranged, while the interior fittings should be of crystalized work from the lake on a grand scale. Such a palace should be perannent if properly protected from the winter rains; it could be made of the most unique and striking style of architecture; it could be made one of the world. When lighted by electricity the structure would have all the sparkle and damond gitter of the great ice palaces, and with the difference in the salt palace's favor that heat would not melt or dim its glories in the least.

This tineture is, as you know, if you've ever tasted it, as hot as liquid fire, and a tenspoenful is a dose for an ordinary man. One pound of ginger will make two quarts of theture, and many prefer it to whisky."

"How much does a continued ginger drinker take at a dose?"

"There are one or two men who are regular ginger drinkers, that take as much as four ounces at a time, or, to show you the difference, 32 tenspoonfuls. If you or I or any other man unaccustomed to dring ginger should take that much at once it would kill us. We would be apt to have convulsions at first, followed by a con-atose con-dition, in which state death would come."

"How much would it take te make a man deunk?"

will the drinking of ginger affect the personal appearance of a man as whisky does?"

"Whisky drinking makes a man's face red. Ginger drinking parkes it pale, as the ginger draws the blood away from the surface to the center of the body. I've watched these ginger drinkers closely and I've studied them a good deal. I've learned that an habitual ginger drinker, like a morphine cater, loses all regard for the truth, and would rather lie than tell the truth. They also become hypochondriaes and imagine they are affected with every disease under the sun. One day they'll come in with a long face declaring they've got cramp colic and must have ginger. Another day they'll have beart disease and will surely die unless they can get ginger. The next time they have dyspepsia or rheumatism, but no matter what they have they seem to think ginger the sovereign remedy, and nothing clse will do them. The trouble with them is the ginger drinking, for it rains the digestion, inflames the stomach and throws the whole system into disorder."

"Is there any advantage in buving ginger?" "Is there any advantage in buying ginger?"

Ginger costs $1 a pint, while whisky "Ginger costs $1 a pint, while whisky sells at from fifty cents ap.
